

Grandad's Voice

a poem by © Brenton Cullen

Granddad is huge

Filling rooms

Every crevice, crack, and corner

With his belly-laugh

sunny grin

foot tickles tucking in

Sunday roasts

Barbecue apron

Books on frogs

His facts spat fast

On everything you

Never knew you wanted to know.